

Japanese War Crimes Trial Is Extended; 7 May Resign

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—The international trials of Japan's accused war-makers opened today with the tribunal blocking their last-minute efforts to escape prosecution—but the 26 prisoners were allowed 10 days more in which to prepare their defense.

The court, meeting in a glare of floodlights in the grim war ministry where many of the defendants are accused of plotting Japan's disastrous plunge into aggressive war, will be reconvened at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow (7:30 p. m. today, EST) to hear the prosecution's opening statement.

Chief Prosecutor Joseph B. Keenan will deliver a 15,000 word condemnation of Ex-Premier Hideki Tojo and the other Japanese leaders of starting the Pacific war. The presentation probably will last at least five hours.

2 Defense Motions

Keenan, who has been in Japan six months, will take advantage of the ten-day recess by requesting permission to make a hurried trip to the United States to take care of personal affairs. His aides, meanwhile, would begin the presentation of evidence. He has not informed General MacArthur of his desire but the allied commander was expected to approve Keenan's trip.

Tomorrow, the 10 black-robed allied justices may also announce at that time their decision on two other defense motions heard in today's long session: whether to dismiss the cases against two additional defendants absent because of illness; and whether to accept as facts certain historic events around which part of the prosecution's case is to be built.

Tokyo, June 3 (AP)—Informed sources reported today that the chief of the war crimes defense section, Naval Capt. Beverly M. Coleman, and six associates have decided to resign because of their dissatisfaction with the conduct of the trial of Ex-Premier Tojo and 25 other Japanese they were appointed to defend.

Another source also disclosed that Coleman was scratched by glass splinters Saturday when an unidentified Japanese threw a rock at the windshield of his sedan near the guarded gates of the war ministry building, site of the war crimes trial. No explanation for the attack was given.

GREEKS THANK LOCAL PUPILS

"To the Noble Students of America," began a letter recently received by the students of Lincoln school from the students of the Macedonia, Greece. "We received the gifts which you have sent us, of which we are grateful."

The letter was an acknowledgment of Red Cross packages sent by the students at Lincoln school and which had been given to the students at Macedonia. Written by John Tambakis, for the Greek class, the letter was in Greek. It was translated into English by Mrs. Ernest Kranias.

Continuing, the letter stated, "The gifts (although of a limited quantity) were gratefully received by each student and gave us reassurance."

"During the years of our misfortune, your actions distinguish you as a philanthropic people, we are deeply touched."

"Our joy is unexpressible, which we felt when we heard that there were gifts on the way for us, from students."

"We will always remember your kind gesture, and we shall make an effort to remember you, as your fine gestures show."

"Although we are separated by many miles, one life remembrance will always exist with us, that you have helped us a great deal."

"As a representative of the freshman class of High School Sedro-kastro, Macedonia, Greece, I extend the greetings from my classmates."

'Next War' Talk Called 'Vicious' By Eisenhower

Chicago, June 3 (AP)—Talk of "how, where and why the next war will be fought" is branded "vicious" by General Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Addressing the 20th Annual National Convention of the Reserve Officers' Association Sunday, Eisenhower asserted:

"Such talk is more than foolish; it is vicious. Men acquainted with the battlefield will not be found among the number that glibly talk of another war."

"Veterans will work and sweat and sacrifice to prevent the recurrence of such a tragedy."

The army chief of staff advised that until the United Nations can guarantee international peace this country must stay in a position to guard its own security.

MORRIS SHEELY, MURDER VICTIM, INTERRED TODAY

Funeral services for Morris Sheely, 45-year-old Emmitsburg laborer who was slain Friday evening at Flat Run, near Emmitsburg, were held this afternoon from the Allison funeral home, Emmitsburg, with the Rev. Philip Bower conducting the service.

His alleged assailant, James Wivell, 23-year-old Emmitsburg World War II veteran, remained in the Frederick county jail at Frederick with a charge of murder scheduled to be brought against him in connection with the death.

The office of State's Attorney Edwin Nikirk, at Frederick, said today that it was not believed the formal charge had as yet been placed against Wivell. State's Attorney Nikirk was out of Frederick in connection with another crime in that county, as was the county sheriff.

Say Wivell Was Drinking

Sheely was pronounced dead Friday evening by Dr. W. R. Cadie, of Emmitsburg, and a coroner's inquest disclosed he had died of lacerations of the brain on the left side, contusions, and lacerations of the face and scalp and skull.

Brought to the Frederick county jail Friday, Wivell was said to have made no admissions. First Sgt. Walker K. May, of the Maryland police, said that an investigation had revealed that Wivell had been drinking prior to the fight, but it was not disclosed whether Sheely had also been drinking.

Wivell was said by police to have been seen by Donald Topper, Emmitsburg, in the act of fighting with Sheely, and then to have knocked Sheely down, dragged him to the stream and thrown rocks at him. When Topper, who went to get Emmitsburg Borough Constable Albert Adlesberger, and Adlesberger first returned to the scene of the crime they found Sheely still breathing. However, when Doctor Cadie arrived shortly thereafter, the man was dead.

Interment was made this afternoon in Mountview cemetery, at Emmitsburg.

PARISH HOLDS WELCOME HOME

A Welcome Home for veterans of St. Joseph's Catholic parish, Bon-neauville, was held Sunday. Sixty-four men and women of the parish were members of the armed forces, a number of whom are still in service.

The day's program opened with mass at 7:30 a. m. with returned veterans attending in uniform.

Dinner was served in the parish hall at 1 p. m. The dinner was prepared and served by members of the National Council of Catholic Women. A patriotic program was presented by children of St. Joseph's grade school.

The principal speaker of the afternoon was the Rev. Lawrence Schott, chairman of the USO of the Harrisburg Diocese. He placed emphasis on the fact that though the war is over the peace is far from won. Although the boys' work on the battlefield is over it is just beginning at home, the speaker pointed out.

The program closed with the benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament by the Rev. Mr. Schott.

Letters Of Estate Issued Here Today

Letters of administration on the estate of Jacob S. Smith, Cumberland township, who died May 26, have been awarded to a son, George M. Smith, Gettysburg R. 2. Mr. Smith left four daughters, Lottie J. Hartlaub, Dover R. 1; Ruth A. Smith, Gettysburg R. 2; Mary E. Gross, Harrisburg, and Nora E. Spangler, York R. 7, and five sons, Samuel J. New Cumberland, Calvin A. York R. 2; George M. Gettysburg R. 2; John R. Wrightsville R. 1, and Mark W. Littlestown R. 1.

25 To Graduate From St. Joseph's Tuesday

Frances Butt Heltzel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Heltzel, Gettysburg R. 3, will be among the 25 seniors who will receive diplomas Tuesday at the annual graduation exercises at St. Joseph's college, near Emmitsburg. She will be one of three to receive her degree cum laude.

Also members of the graduating class will be Justine Elizabeth Charles, Cashtown, and Dorothy Irene Irvin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orman D. Irvin, Mt. Pleasant, Pa., and grand-daughter of John C. Irvin, Sr., 131 West Middle street.

Miss Heltzel, treasurer of the senior class at St. Joseph's and a student of home economics, will receive a bachelor of science degree and a certificate in education.

Miss Charles and Miss Irvin will also receive bachelor of science degrees, with Miss Irvin also receiving a certificate in journalism. Social sciences were the major field of Miss Irvin's studies with chemistry as a minor. She is a graduate of Ramsay high school Mt. Pleasant, in 1942, and served as sports editor of the college publication "The Valley Echo." She plans to enter the University of Pittsburgh to take a course in merchandising.

The Most Rev. Dr. John M. McNamara, auxiliary bishop of Baltimore and Washington, will preside at the commencement exercises Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock and will also deliver the address.

Other members of the senior class include: Jeanne Margaret Cullen, Helen Elizabeth Dodd, Johanna Downey, Mary Margaret Kopfinger and Mary Adele Young, bachelor of arts degree; Jane Agnes Basic, Mary Jean Crumb, Mary Montague Elie, Mary Elizabeth Hiemenz, Mary Louise Hopke, Mary Ellen James, Alice Teresa Jones, Marian Teresa Leahy, Patricia Ann Ledger, Mary Elizabeth Lynch, Catherine Doris Madden, Mary Claire Matthews, Alma Cecilia Nevy, Fabiola Quedo, Marie Troy Quinlivan, Mildred Helen Reskovitz and Mary Silk Thompson.

77 PROMOTED AT LINCOLN; GIVE AWARDS

Today began the summer holiday for approximately 1,200 students in the Gettysburg public schools.

The three grade schools gave out final report cards this morning while the high school students are scheduled to receive their cards Tuesday. However, there were no scheduled classes at the high school today, thus giving the youngsters a start on their vacation-time. The local parochial school will end its term Friday.

Annual Edward Johnston MacPherson awards for scholastic ability were presented at the Lincoln school this morning, with the presentation being made in the home rooms during the distribution of report cards.

Donald Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Elliott, 31 South Washington street, received the $10 award for highest scholastic average for boys and Jacqueline Long, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Deitch Long, 429 Carlisle street, received the same amount for having the highest scholastic average among the girls.

Honor Roll

Second prizes of $5 each in the MacPherson awards went to John DeHaas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. DeHaas, 41 Steinwehr avenue, and Anna Shryock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shryock, 224 York street.

Thirty students won places on the year's honor roll at Lincoln school. Thirteen members of the eighth grade won the honor and 17 members of the seventh grade also completed the year with scholastic averages high enough to warrant inclusion in the honor list.

The eighth graders on the year honor roll included Nancy Butt, John DeHaas, Donald Elliott, Arlene Lewis, Jacqueline Long, Ann Munley, John Raffensperger, Anna Shryock, Dolores Smith, Patricia Stevens, Betty Jane Stotler, Nina Williams and Jean Wolfe.

The seventh graders included Arthur Aiken, Albert Bachman, Louise DeHaas, Vannie Dively, Dorothy Fidler, Carolyn Fisel, Frederick (Please Turn to Page 7)

SELL TICKETS FOR "MIKADO"

The P.Y.F.A. Players of the Philadelphia Young Friends' Association of Philadelphia who will present the well-known Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "The Mikado," in the Gettysburg high school auditorium Saturday evening, June 15, will give the same performance before a Philadelphia audience Wednesday evening.

The tuneless musical is to be given here under the auspices of the Warner Hospital auxiliary to increase that organization's fund to be used to provide a new kitchen for the hospital. Tickets for "The Mikado," are on sale in every community of the county.

The Saturday night following the Gettysburg appearance, the P.Y.F.A. Players will give the same show at Buck Hill Falls. This is their eighteenth annual production of its kind given since the group of music and drama students and directors was formed in 1929 with J. Ralph Satterthwaite as their director. Other Gilbert and Sullivan compositions including "H.M.S. Pinafore" and "Pirates of Penzance" have been included in the Players' repertoire.

"The Mikado," which is presented in the colorful costumes of the Mikado's court in Japan, centers about the romantic adventures and Nanki-Poo, the Mikado's son and is probably best known for its songs, "Tit-Willow" and "The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring."

The more than 50 members of the cast include Bob McKay in the title role and Bob Heinaman as his son. Besides the other members of the dramatic cast there are mixed choruses of 36 voices.

Veterans' Graves Markers Received

Fifty new markers for the graves of Adams county veterans of World War II, were received today, five days too late for Memorial Day, at the office of the county commissioners at the court house. They are available for placing on the graves by veterans' organizations or relatives of deceased veterans of the last war.

The emblem itself is of bronze, and a replica of the discharge button of World War II. The rods are brass. The emblems, like the G.A.R., V.F.W., and American Legion markers, have places for holding flags. The markers were ordered weeks ago and were due early in May, but the shipment was held up by the rail strike, Clarence C. Smith, chief clerk in the commissioners' office, said.

Says Home, Sweet Home Is "The Heart Of America"

By LEIGHTON C. TAYLOR

The saddest, if not the most alarming, commentary on our present social structure, is the marked dissolution of the American Home. In recent years, under modern living conditions, the Home gradually has fallen from its former high estate, and is now flippantly characterized as nothing more than a tourist cabin and a filling station. To a greater extent than is perhaps realized, this characterization is only too true, as witness the rising tide of juvenile delinquency which is the forerunner of crowded divorce and criminal court dockets.

The figures are startling, but it is a fact that the United States is now faced with its greatest divorce jam-boree. Last year between 350,000 and 400,000 divorces were granted in our courts. Reno, the notorious divorce capital, alone reports more than 7,000 divorces granted in 1945.

Offer Bleachers To Local League; Will Level Field

The baseball diamond at the high school will be put in first class condition for the Community Softball League according to an announcement from the Gettysburg school board this morning.

The board granted permission to league officials to level off the infield, which includes the base paths, in order that the infield lot may be kept in first class condition for the players. The league had requested permission to make the improvement at no expense to the board.

The request was granted and the board also announced that it will grant the league permission to use three sets of bleachers for the accommodation of fans who attend the games.

League officials this morning expressed their thanks and appreciation to the school board for its co-operation.

League officials assume responsibility for the care of the bleachers and their restoration when the season is completed.

MISS ARNOLD, W. C. WEIKERT WED SUNDAY

Miss Virginia A. Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Arnold, Emmitsburg, and Willard C. Weikert, son of Mrs. Mary Weikert, Gettysburg R. 1, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the rectory of St. Joseph's Catholic church, Emmitsburg, by the Rev. Francis Stauble.

The attendants were Mrs. Charles Pitzer and Francis Arnold, sister and brother of the bride.

The bride was attired in a powder blue street dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of gardenias and red rosebuds.

Mrs. Pitzer wore a rose flowered street dress with white accessories and a corsage of tansman roses.

Two Divorces Are Granted By Court

A decree in divorce was granted Saturday by Judge W. C. Sheely to Rufus W. Weaver, Gettysburg, against Monica J. Weaver, Lancaster, on statutory grounds.

Judge Sheely also signed a decree divorcing Melva Roberta Leist, Gettysburg, from Allen Maxillien Leist, also of Gettysburg. The divorce was sought on grounds of indignities to the person and cruel and barbarous treatment.

"SHARE WORLD AND LIVES" IS PLEA OF PASTOR

"Individuals and nations must realize that we must share our world and our lives with others if we are to prevent upheavals, unrest, and war" the Rev. Dr. Dwight P. Putnam told members of the graduating class of Gettysburg high school and others attending the baccalaureate exercises Sunday evening in St. James Lutheran church.

Speaking on the topic: "Myself, The Other Fellow and God," the Christ Lutheran church pastor declared that the graduates "are entering a world which is fraught with possibilities more dread than the days of war . . . No one could read a newspaper or listen to the radio for the past few weeks without realizing that one year after the end of World War II there is still no peace, that peoples again are bearing arms and in some parts of the world are marching against other people, that groups are rising against groups, that there is danger of another and more devastating explosion into war."

World Cooperation

"The problem before us today is how well we can get along with our fellow man, with the Japanese, the Chinaman, the German and the Russian. If we cannot get along with other people and other peoples we are headed for a holocaust."

"The great need is for constant understanding among men. What is the use of education, for educators and students to work together to plan the future work and careers of students if there is to be no future?"

"What contribution are you going to make to the solution of the problem? That is the challenge before you tonight. But there is one more element in the picture. These problems of the world cannot be solved without God. Man will never get along with his fellow man unless God enters into the picture. All about are all kinds of bitterness, class competition, race and religious prejudices and all about are men who are stirring up those prejudices, bitterness and competition. These problems cannot be solved without God."

REDUCE RANK OF 7 OFFICERS

Major General Charles A. Willoughby, member of General Douglas MacArthur's staff who served in the Philippines and the South Pacific throughout the war, and who played a prominent role in the receipt of the Japanese surrender, has been demoted, with six other major generals also with World War II experience, to the permanent grade of brigadier general.

Shortly before the War Department announced the change in rank for the seven major generals on Saturday President Truman sent to the Senate the nomination of his military aide, Harry H. Vaughn, for promotion from brigadier general to major general.

General Willoughby is a graduate of Gettysburg college.

Others demoted were Major Generals Henry B. Saylor, former chief ordnance officer in Europe; Albert W. Kenner, chief medical officer in Europe; William E. Lynd, who commanded the 4th Air Force and 4th Anti-Aircraft Artillery Command in San Francisco; Sidney P. Spalding, who served with the military mission in Moscow; Brigadier General Early E. W. Duncan, who headed the war-time military aviation mission in Chile, was reduced from brigadier general to colonel.

Demotion of the generals is in line with the War Department's plan to cut its war-time peak total of 1,541 general officers to 549 within another month.

ARRESTED AS DISORDERLY

Norman Yingling, Railroad street, arrested on East High street at 11:30 p. m. Saturday on a drunk and disorderly charge, was fined $5 and costs today by Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore. Borough police made the arrest.

Reports Theft Of Suitcase, Clothes

A suitcase and its contents of clothing, valued at upwards of $100, owned by Miss Mildred Adams, county home economics representative, were stolen from Miss Adams' automobile while it was parked Sunday night on West Middle street, at the side of the court house, according to a report made to borough police.

Weather Forecast

Fair and somewhat warmer Tuesday.

SIX INJURED IN FIVE COLLISIONS OVER WEEK-END

Six persons were injured, with two of them remaining as patients at the Warner hospital, in five accidents over the week-end.

Most seriously hurt were William A. Horst, Hagerstown, who is suffering from a slight concussion, lacerations of the scalp and abrasions of the body, and his sister, Mrs. Grace Hutchens, also of Hagerstown, who suffered a fracture of the left collar bone, lacerations of the scalp and first degree chemical burns of the entire body. Both are hospital patients here.

Mrs. Hutchens received the burns when she lay in a pool of gasoline beside a car after having been thrown from it in an accident near Zora Saturday morning at 11:15 o'clock. Horst, brother of Mrs. Hutchens, was driving his car east on the Fairfield road when it struck a car driven by Vaughn A. Harbaugh, Fairfield R. 2, going west. According to state police who investigated, Horst had just completed the turn from the Emmitsburg-Waynesboro road into the Fairfield road and his car skidded across the highway, with the rear of the Horst vehicle smashing into the front of the Harbaugh machine.

Car Demolished

Police say that both Mrs. Hutchens and Horst were thrown from Horst's 1946 coupe when the left door swung open. The car was completely destroyed, police added.

Guy McClellan, Fairfield R. 2 and Fred Harbaugh, Waynesboro, both occupants of the car driven by Mr. Harbaugh, were injured. McClellan suffered a laceration of the face and Fred Harbaugh, who owned the vehicle, suffered a laceration of the nose.

Total damage was $950. Horst will be charged before Justice of the Peace Ellis Stine with driving on the left side of the highway, police said.

Mrs. Anna Scotchlas, Simpson, Pa., suffered strained neck muscles and her son, Franklin, six, suffered a laceration of the nose in an accident Sunday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock, one-half mile north of York Springs on the Harrisburg road.

Driver Is Charged

Mrs. Scotchlas was an occupant of a car driven by Wasił Swinarski, her brother, also of Simpson. Swinarski was struck by a car driven by Walter Eugene Cristofaro, York Springs. Cristofaro was driving north according to police, pulled off the highway to the berm and then drove back to the highway, where he was hit by the Swinarski car. Damage to Cristofaro's truck was $50 and to the Swinarski car, which overturned, $700. Swinarski was charged before Justice of the Peace John Hinkle, York Springs R. D., with reckless driving by the state police. The officers are continuing their investigation. Mrs. Hutchens and her son were treated at the Warner hospital.

In another accident Sunday morning at 1:05 o'clock one-half mile north of McSherrystown on the New Oxford-McSherrystown road Kenneth Klinedinst, Spring Grove R. 3, traveling north, collided with a car driven by Maurice Gaines, Hanover R. 1. Total damage was $250. No one was injured.

LABOR GROUPS SCORE TRUMAN

Washington, June 3 (AP)—America's Maritime labor crisis took on a broader international aspect today.

CIO Maritime leaders, loosing still another critical blast at President Truman, appealed simultaneously to workers in other lands for help in their shipping strike scheduled June 15.

In this atmosphere, wage and hour negotiations moved slowly along at the labor department. CIO unions and ship operators prepared to meet again today (11 a. m. E.S.T.).

In the absence of any official report of progress, the one encouraging thing in the situation appeared to be this:

The talks are continuing. Collective bargaining has not broken down.

Meanwhile, something new in labor disputes occurred last night when Harry Bridges and Joseph Curran, kinsmen of the CIO's Maritime Union, sent a cablegram to the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU) at Paris.

In that message they renewed their criticism of Mr. Truman's assertion that he will operate the Merchant ships with the armed forces if necessary. They said the President had "seriously jeopardized" the possibilities for a peaceful settlement.

And they asked the WFTU in the event of a strike to declare any Merchant vessels manned by the U. S. Government to be "scab ships." They also asked for any other help the WFTU could give.

Plan Reunion For Scouts Of Troop 79

Motion pictures of former activities of Boy Scout Troop 79 of St. James Lutheran church will be shown as a feature of the program for a reunion of former members of the troop to be held in connection with the weekly meeting of the recently re-organized troop Tuesday evening, it was announced today by Scoutmaster William A. Welkert.

The meeting will be held at St. James church at 7 o'clock.

The motion pictures of troop activities of other years will be shown by William H. Ridinger, former troop scoutmaster, who recently resigned as district scout commissioner preliminary to his going to Roselle, N. J., where he has accepted a teaching position.

All boys who are 12 years of age or over and who are interested in scouting also have been invited to attend the meeting.

Three Marriage Licenses Issued

Three marriage licenses were issued at the court house today to the following couples:

Edgar Leroy Arter, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Leroy Arter, Sr., Littlestown, and Miss Helen Marr Woolf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Leslie Woolf, also of Littlestown.

Herbert Amos Shearer, son of Amos K. Shearer, York Springs, and Miss Gladys Carolyn Kennedy, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Ray E. Slaybaugh, York Springs.

Richard Levere Mummert, Hanover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elias J. Mummert, York, and Miss Iris Marie Eline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Eline, McSherrystown.

Seminary Graduate Named To Pastorate

Rev. Karl L. Mumford, of Baltimore, a native of Ellicott City, Md., and a World War II veteran, was elected pastor of the Glen Rock-Hamilton Lutheran charge Sunday morning at congregational meetings in St. Paul's and Zion churches.

The new pastor, who is a graduate of both Gettysburg college and seminary, was an Army Air Corps chaplain for three and a half years. He succeeds Rev. J. Elmer Leas who recently became pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran church at Harrisburg. Rev. Mr. Mumford will assume the new charge next Sunday.

Fight In Residence And Not Near Home

The fight which resulted in the arrest of Ivan Cassatt, of Fairfield, R. D., and his being held for county court, took place in the residence of Mrs. Helen M. Goldsmith, North Stratton street, and not "near the Goldsmith home" as reported in The Times Saturday. Mrs. Goldsmith said that the disturbance took place in her residence and that when she attempted to stop it she was struck by the defendant.

FINED $10 AND COSTS

William George Slomaker, Winchester, Va., driver of a tractor-trailer truck, arrested late Sunday night by borough police on a charge of driving too fast for road conditions on Buford avenue, Chambersburg street, Center Square and York street, was fined $10 and costs by Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Doctor Baugh, whose work is one of the special missionary interests of the local congregation, also spoke to the Sunday school and this afternoon is talking before the June meeting of the Missionary society of the church.

Doctor Baugh, who was accompanied here by his wife, told briefly of their experiences after being ordered out of Korea by the Japs. The war began while they were in the Philippines enroute to the United States. The Baughs and three other missionaries went into hiding on the island of Bohol and successfully escaped the Japs for three and a half years. They often lived in caves in the hilly back country, he said.

In his talk to the Sunday School, Doctor Baugh said the Americans arrived in Korea last August in time to save "thousands" of imprisoned Korean Christians from execution at the hands of the Japs. The execution date had been set for late August.

COUNTY LEAGUE LEAD IS TAKEN BY FAIRFIELD

Fairfield took over the lead in the Adams County Baseball league when Arendtsville was knocked from the unbeaten class Saturday afternoon.

Fairfield scored the "easiest" victory of the afternoon by turning back Bonneauville on the latter's field 4-1.

All of the remaining games were decided by one-run margins. Arendtsville was nipped out 7-6 by Bendersville at Arendtsville.

Emmitsburg fought off a three-run rally by Orrtanna in the eighth inning to score a 7-6 victory at Orrtanna. George Kennell continued his heavy hitting for the victors with three doubles in four trips to the plate. K. Deardoff and B. Sease each secured three hits for the losers.

McSherrystown copped its third straight victory by registering a 3-2 decision over Littlestown at McSherrystown. An error permitted McSherrystown to tally two runs in the sixth inning to clinch the verdict.

Assault's Total Is Now $320,770

New York, June 3 (AP)—They're tabbing Assault as "the Mint" around these parts today, because the Clubfoot Comet from the wide open spaces is now in a spot where he can have a bank roll of over half-a-million dollars by early fall if his running shoes don't wear out.

The Chocolate Champ zoomed the $300,000 mark—up to $320,770, to be exact—Saturday, when he laughed his way home in the Belmont Stakes to become the seventh winner of the triple crown in turf history. This moved him up to 11th on racing's all-time money-winning list and the way he did it indicated that, with cash as loose as it is this year, he might even be challenging Whirlaway, who heads the parade with $561,161, before the year is out.

Pete Coscart Hopeful Of Job

Pittsburgh, June 3 (AP)—Pete Coscart, veteran infielder sold by the Pittsburgh Pirates to San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, watched the Bucs' doubleheader with Philadelphia from the stands yesterday.

Coscart is still hopeful of landing a big league job, but falling in that, said he may accept a standing offer to play in the Mexican League rather than report to the Padres.

Pirate officials said the sale of the veteran infielder was the first step in trimming the club's squad to meet the 30-player limit by the June 15 deadline. Six others must also be dropped from the Bucs' roster to get the club under the wire.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, June 3 (AP)—Three Louisiana State university golfers are shooting for qualifying places in the national open at three different locations today, which lends credence to coach "Skipper" Heard's contention that his boys will do okay in the national college tourney later this month.

... Captain Jimmy Wittenberg, whose record shows victories over Ben Hogan, is shooting at Birmingham, Ala., Loca Barbato at New Orleans and Alfred Timbrook at Cincinnati. ... At that, the LSU Tigers may have their hands full against such teams as Oklahoma, led by long-driving Andy Anderson, Charlie Coe and John Jacobs, Jr., and Notre Dame, with George Stuhler in the No. 1 slot. ... Anderson even tried to play golf in a German prison camp, carving a ball out of a rubber heel after the Red Cross furnished a couple of clubs.

Johnny Jacobs of Iowa won the big 10 individual golf title with a 294 for 72 holes but his team finished fourth behind Michigan's champions.

CITRUS LEAGUE

The Miami Seahawks of the all America football conference, who will play their home games in the Orange Bowl and have adopted orange and white as their colors, have signed three players who hail from Orange, Texas—Ken Whitlow, Julian Garrett and Bo Cohenour. ... Let's hope none of them turn out to be lemons.

MONDAY MATINEE

Sam Patton, who played right field for the Albrook field team in Panama when Terry Moore was in center, is hitting at a 400 or better clip for Asheville in the tri-state league. ... Bill Robertson, the Hollywood, Calif., tennis who will play with a U. S. squad in England and France, set a record of some sort when he led a squad that toured all over Europe and touched Hawaii, China, Japan, India and Egypt. ... B.P. McDonald, now a Canadian M.P. from Parry Sound, Ont., is helping to bring LaCrosse back to Canada's capital by playing on an Ottawa City league team. Much to everyone's surprise, they didn't have to bring Bucko back to parliament on a shutter after the first game.

State College Men On Lacrosse Team

State College, Pa., June 3 (AP)—Three Pennsylvania State college players were designated today to accompany Coach Nich Thiel to the North-South all-star lacrosse game at Baltimore, June 7.

They are Johnny Nolan, Glen Falls, N. Y.; Art Tenhula, Bessemer, and "Wild Bill" Hollenbach, Allentown.

Thiel, former All-American, is coaching the "North" team for the second time.

Play To Resume In Interstate Loop

(By The Associated Press)
Weather permitting, play was to resume in the Interstate league to-night with the Wilmington Blue Rocks hoping Sunbury and Harrisburg will cooperate in reducing Trenton's game-and-a-half lead.

Second-place Wilmington meets Harrisburg, while Sunbury invades Trenton. Rain postponed all games yesterday and Saturday. Other games tonight: Allentown at Hagerstown, York at Lancaster.

Illini Whiz Kid Clips World Mark

Champaign, Ill., June 3 (AP)—Herb McKenley, Illinois' newest "Whiz" kid, today had a 46.2 second performance in the 440 yd. for consideration as a world record, and may be only starting his bigtime track career.

McKenley's time in the quarter mile at the big ten outdoor track meet Saturday clipped two-tenths of a second off the accepted mark held jointly by Ben Eastman of the Stanford and Grover Klemmer of California.

Pittsburgh, June 3 (AP)—Fifty-three professional and 46 low handicap or scratch amateurs opened play on the 6,900 yard Oakmont course today to determine the tri-state district's nine qualifiers for the National Open Championship at Cleveland June 13 to 15. Play will be over 35 holes.

FORMER MATES DEFEAT CARDS IN TWIN BILL

By JOE REICHLER
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The St. Louis Cardinals, pre-season favorites in the National league, may windup among the also-rans because of their inability to win at home.

Including yesterday's double loss to the New York Giants, which dropped them three and a half games behind pace-setting Brooklyn, the Redbirds have won only six of 15 games at Sportsman's park—a percentage of 400, and fully 190 points below their over-all pace.

Never has a pennant winner lost a majority of its home games. The three-time Cardinal champions of 1942-44, for instance, won 172 home games against 60 defeats for a .741 percentage. In '11 they grabbed 60 of 77 home engagements for a phenomenal .779 average.

Extra Inning Homer
A pair of former mates—Bobby Blattner and Walker Cooper—beat the Cardinals yesterday. Blattner scored the only run in the Giants won the opener 1-0, then homered in the 11th inning of the nightcap to give the New Yorkers a 7-6 decision.

Getting superlative pitching from its so-called secondary hurlers—Les Webber, Art Herring and Hugh Casey—Brooklyn gained two full games on the cards by defeating the Cincinnati Reds 2-1 and 1-0 before 32,391 paying fans, the largest Crosley field gathering of the season.

In the only American league game—the others having been rained out—the Detroit Tigers walloped Washington's Senators 10-2 as Hal Newhouse fanned 13.

Split With Braves
The Chicago Cubs with Boston's Braves to move into a third place tie with the Reds. The Braves, with Mort Cooper notching his third win, won the opener 6-3 and the Cubs captured the nightcap 8-2 behind Claude Passeau, who registered his fourth victory.

Pittsburgh had to be satisfied with a split in its twin bill with the Philadelphia Phillies. The Pirates copped the opener 5-1 as Rip Sewell, returning to action for the first time since his collapse on May 5, held the Phils to four safeties. A seven-run seventh inning won the finale for the Phils 10-3.

Big Ten Fails To Replace Maroons

Champaign, Ill., June 3 (AP)—Kissing the University of Chicago good bye, the Western conference today officially was listed as the Big Nine with the prospect that the Maroons' vacated berth will remain unfilled for some time.

The conference faculty committee Saturday formally accepted Chicago's resignation, although the league's charter member has been a "poor relation" ever since A. A. Stagg "retired" at the midway in 1932.

Disappointing Michigan State college and the University of Pittsburgh, which sent representatives to the Champaign meeting in hopes of snaring a membership bid, conference officials agreed to shelve for the present the matter of replacing the Maroons.

Managers Worried Over Idle Hurlers

(By The Associated Press)
Eastern league managers have plenty of well rested pitchers for tonight's contests, but probably none is happy about it.

Rain, which washed out the entire week-end schedule, including four Sunday double headers, presents the problem of giving the hurlers enough work to keep in shape.

Tonight's schedule: Williamsport at Utica (2); Hartford at Scranton (2); Albany at Wilkes-Barre (2) and Elmira at Binghamton.

Pony League Teams Go Extra Innings

Buffalo, N. Y., June 3 (AP)—The Batavia Clippers and the Bradford Blue Wings won extra-inning Pony league contests yesterday with the Clippers edging Wellsville 5-4 in 13 innings, and the Blue Wings scoring out Hamilton, also by a score of 5 to 4, in 10 innings.

In the other game, league-leading Jamestown trounced Olean 9-2. The Lockport at Hornell double-header was postponed because of wet grounds.

Games tonight: Hamilton at Bradford; Lockport at Hornell; Wellsville at Batavia, and Olean at Jamestown.

8 PLACES AT STAKE

Philadelphia, June 3 (AP)—Eight places in the national open championship were at stake in sectional qualifying today at the Manufacturers Golf and Country club.

Thirty-eight professionals and 12 amateurs entered the test, including Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles; Felix Serafin, Pittston, Pa.; Joe Kirkwood, Abington, Pa.; Porky Oliver, Wilmington, Del.; and George Fazio, Los Angeles.

Athletics Release Louis "Bobo" Newsom

Philadelphia, June 3 (AP)—Pitcher Louis (Bobo) Newsom was given his unconditional release today by the Philadelphia Athletics, making him a free agent.

Newsom, who has been with the A's three years, said he was grateful to Manager Connie Mack for the "break" and would try to make a deal with another major league club.

PUBLIC WORKERS WANT MORE PAY

Harrisburg, June 3 (AP)—The Pennsylvania Council of Public Employees (AFL) redoubled efforts today in seeking a 20 per cent boost in pay for all state workers.

Adopting a resolution to that effect at its annual delegate assembly here Saturday, the council said it would make the wage hike a continuing issue despite rebuffs by Governor Martin who has taken the stand that increases will be made on merit only.

The council also adopted these resolutions which asked for:

(1) Accumulation of sick leave and vacation time.
(2) Time and one-half for overtime for more than 40 hours of work weekly.

(3) A state-wide Civil Service system.

(4) Increments of salary automatically each year.
(5) Liberalization of the state retirement act.

Reuben Miller, director of organization, said the group is supporting the two-week-old strike of municipal workers at Scranton and promised financial support in the form of a "substantial sum" of money. The amount was not disclosed.

George M. Schmeltzer, of Hershey, was re-elected president.

RED TOPS

Chicago, (AP)—Yell "red" around Police Sgt. John F. O'Connell's house and a crowd is sure to gather.

Sergeant O'Connell, his wife and their eight children all have red hair.

"When we're out in the car," says Sergeant O'Connell, "the other tourists look twice to make sure they're not seeing 10 stop lights."

Pennsylvania teams among its opponents next fall. The card: Sept. 19—Geneva; 28—St. Bonaventure; away; Oct. 4—Western Reserve; 19—St. Vincent; 26—Lebanon at Hershey, Pa.; Nov. 2—Scranton; 9—Morris-Harvey; 15—Wenatchee.

HOGAN FAVORITE FOR U. S. OPEN

By BILL BONI

New York, June 3 (AP)—This was a day off for Ben Hogan, a rarity in the current career of the man who is golf's leading money winner. He planned to spend part of it looking at a two-reel golf short he made recently, something some of his rivals could well afford to spend time looking at, too.

The little Texan very definitely is top dog these days. Already a long lap ahead of Byron Nelson in prize money won this year, he looks due to add another $2,000 when they play the last two rounds of the $10,000 Goodall Round-Robin at Winged Foot tomorrow. (Competition was rained out Sunday.)

He also is likely to be the favorite when they tee off in the U. S. Open championship a week from Thursday at Cleveland's Canterbury course.

Qualifying Round
Competition for 129 of the Cleveland places was on today at 25 courses throughout the country. Fellows with reputations, like Jimmy DeMaret and Bob Hamilton, two of Hogan's rivals in the Goodall, former amateur champion Dick Chapman, Elsworth Vines, Jimmy Thomson, Porky Oliver, and amateur Cary Middlecoff, were in there battling for starting berths in the 36-hole sectional eliminations against some 1,000 others, most of them with their reputations still to win.

Hogan, along with 41 others, was exempt from this sectional strife, having tied for third the last time they played the Open, in 1941 at Fort Worth.

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and
The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO
We learn that a new paper has been commenced in East Berlin, in this county called "The Standard," by Mr. G. O. Little, lately of this place. Not having been honored by the Editor with a sight of it, we cannot tell whether or not it bears the impress of the rabid locofocoism set forth in the attempt to receive it in Gettysburg.

War! War!!—Military Meeting!!!
The Citizens of Gettysburg and vicinity are requested to meet at the Court-house in Gettysburg, Monday evening, June 8th, at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of considering the propriety, and if deemed expedient, of taking the necessary preliminary steps, for the immediate organization of a Company of Volunteers, to tender their services to the Governor of the Commonwealth, as part of the contingent of Pennsylvania to be employed in the existing war with Mexico.

The Rev. C. Witmer, formerly of Gettysburg Seminary, has taken charge of the Evangelical Lutheran congregations at Abbottstown, in this county.

Died: On Monday morning, of consumption Miss M'Pherson, daughter of Wm. M'Pherson, Esq., deceased of this borough, in the 27th year of her age.

On the 7th ult., of consumption, Mrs. Elizabeth Christ, wife of Mr. Lewis Christ, of Menallen township, aged 54 years, 7 months.

Latest from the Army: Official information has been received that on the 17th, Col. Wilson, with four companies of regulars, and three companies of volunteers, in conjunction with 500 marines from the squadron, crossed the Rio Grande, and took the town of Barrita without opposition. Gen. Taylor was to cross over to Matamoros on the morning of the 18th, to join Col. Wilson's force, who were on their march up the Mexican side.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Decoration Day:—From all sections, where repose the remains of the honored dead, come telegrams announcing impressive ceremonies. There being no Post of the Grand Army in Gettysburg, the State Emplacement delegated to Capt. Norris, of the Zouaves, the duty of arranging the ceremonies in the National Cemetery.

At 4 o'clock the Zouaves, escorting the Orphans from the National Orphan Home, and headed by the Gettysburg Brass Band, took up the line of march from the center square to the National Cemetery—the floral offerings being carried in a hearse decorated with flags. The Orphans carried small banners representing the States, each boy and girl also carrying a bouquet. At the cemetery a very large crowd had assembled to witness the ceremonies.

After music by the Band, Prof. H. L. Baugher offered Prayer. An introductory address was made by Capt. J. H. Harpster. Following this address, the flowers were given to the Orphans, and by them scattered over the soldiers' graves, the band meanwhile discoursing appropriate music, the Zouaves having stationed sentinels along the outer burial line to keep the grounds clear. This ceremony completed, the closing address was made by Rev. Jesse B. Young, of 84th Pa. Regiment during the war, now Pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church in this place.

The Benediction was pronounced by Rev. W. R. H. Deatrich, of the Reformed church.

School Closed:—The closing exercises of the Common Schools on Wednesday afternoon were quite interesting. They consisted of singing and recitations by the children of the nine schools, who were all assembled with their teachers, on the upper floor—the rooms being profusely decorated with wreathed mottoes and flowers. A pleasant feature of the occasion was the presentation of tokens of esteem from pupils to teachers. Capt. McCreary

Today's Talk

THIS WILL DO
It is good to think of way back when. It was then that men and women took pride in their work, when the pay for work was not regulated, but earned. The worker then did not say to himself, "This will do," but, "I want this job done right!" So he did it as nearly right as he knew. He gave his best.

Waste and sluggishness creep in, like evil enemies, when one does not do his best. It should be the aim of us all to do each thing that we attempt not only well, but better than that particular thing has ever been done before! Then there is progress—growth, and personal satisfaction which loom invisibly in the compensation.

Doing a particular thing "just to get by" may not be noted at once by an employer, or it does not materially affect one at once, but in time it will have hardened the arteries of one's circulatory system of thoughts, and the damage may be beyond one to correct.

Our thoughts need a healthy glow as well as our bodies. Otherwise, there are stoppages that slow and hinder each step forward. One's personal satisfaction far outweighs the satisfaction given to an employer, or to the public at large, for any task performed.

The books of R. B. Cunningham Graham are little known. In all he wrote some three dozen books, but he wrote them largely to please himself. He had no eye to popular acclaim, or to the possibility of huge circulation in book clubs. Few of our present day books reach the standard that this writer insisted upon achieving. He wrote for those who could appreciate him. His brain would froth at the idea of any such statement as, "This will do."

A friend has told me of the letters, published in many volumes, of Horace Walpole. He made each letter that he wrote an outstanding essay of literary perfection. Most people write a letter to get it out of their system! Walpole "lived," says one writer about him, "in Epicurean ease, and made reading one of the instruments of his coziness, preserving his sensations, impressions, fancies, in nearly four thousand letters to his friends."

Talking to the late Thomas Wolfe, he said to me, "Mr. Adams, my next book will be the best that I can possibly get out of me!" I read that book, and it was all Thomas Wolfe. Unfortunately, it was his last. But it will live as the book of a great artist who was never satisfied but who always gave his best to every page.

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "On Giving"

SONG BIRD
Low in my mood was I,
Weary a bit, perhaps;
Dull both of mind and eye,
Sick of care's harness straps;
Tired of the fretful "must"
Urging the flagging will,
Thinking the good must—
Then on the air, a thrill!

High on the tallest tree
A bird in a scarlet coat
Sang a brave melody,
Lovely each golden note!
Never a hint of wrong,
Never a phrase of strife,
Just a rich burst of song
Chanting the joy of life!

Why do you shame me so,
Bird of the glad refrain?
Is it you never know
Loneliness, hurt or pain?
I who have faith, and yet
Under the slightest sting,
Grumble at care and fret,
Lacking the heart to sing!

home, driving a quiet and trusty horse which had been in possession of the family for years. Later in the afternoon she was found dead on the Ridge road, leading from the Emmitsburg road, and about one mile from her residence by Jeremiah Sneeringer, who at once went for Jacob Kitzmiller, who lives close by, had taken her and run off, throwing Miss Thompson from the carriage, which was broken to pieces. Her body was between two rocks. The deceased, after the accident had managed to get over to the rocks, to sit down and adjust an injured wrist, where she probably fainted and falling on her face smothered. Miss Thompson was 64 years of age and was highly esteemed.

State College Gets Polio Grant

HOLIDAY'S TOLL LOWER THAN '44

Although 159 persons were killed in traffic accidents during the four-day Memorial Day holiday, the number fell far short of the national safety council's forecast of 329.

A total of 287 persons met violent deaths in the four days which ended last midnight, compared with 327 in the last four-day Memorial Day observance, in 1944.

Drownings accounted for 74 fatalities. The remaining 54 lost their lives by such various mishaps as shootings, stabbings, fires and plane crashes.

Pennsylvania's toll of 37 was more than double any other state. Parts of Pennsylvania were washed by floods, creating hazardous driving conditions, and 19 deaths resulted from traffic accidents. Eleven persons drowned.

California had the next highest toll—18, including 11 traffic fatalities. Michigan had 17 deaths, and Illinois and Ohio 16 each.

FLOOD DAMAGE TO CROPS HEAVY, TOPSOIL TAKEN

Harrisburg, June 3 (AP)—Besides taking 14 lives and damaging property to the extent of $3,000,000, the devastating floods last week set back some crops by months, federal and state agriculture officials said today.

"Terrific damage" to topsoil is evident in all the ravaged areas, said Carson F. Mertz, state director of the Farm Security Administration. Hardest hit were Tioga, Lycoming, Lancaster, Lawrence and Erie counties.

"Many fields were cut into strips by tremendous volumes of water," he added, "while crops were either beaten down by the hard rains or completely washed out." The state Department of Agriculture said it is unable as yet to estimate the dollar value of crops lost.

Biggest problem in flood areas, the department asserted, will be replanting when the soil dries to the extent that it can be worked. Biggest obstacles will be the lack of labor, seed and young plants, it added.

Mertz said his 29 offices throughout the state stood ready to assist farmers financially where money is needed to replant crops and restore top soil.

Meanwhile, state and Red Cross relief workers concentrated their efforts in Tioga county. Darker estimates of devastation in that area, particularly in the little community of Lawrenceville, came yesterday when it was learned water and milk supplies might be contaminated.

DDT VALUABLE IN INSECT WAR IF USED EARLY

Spraying and dusting the garden in time to prevent damage, which is the right way, will be much facilitated by the peculiar nature of DDT, the new insecticide, which promises to be a boon to amateurs, and to be plentiful this year.

DDT is different in action from the older contact insecticides and stomach poisons. Insects had to be hit by the contact poisons, and it was not easy to hit leaf hoppers, for example, which swarmed up and flew away when you approached the plants they were destroying. Stomach poisons only affected insects which ate plant tissues, and left the juice drinkers unharmed.

Gets Both Kinds
But DDT gets both kinds, by contact, only instead of hitting the insect direct it lies waiting on the plant until the insects walk over it, then with deadly effects it strikes, through the feet of the crawler. This "residue" may remain sufficiently on the plant for days, or months, depending on its strength in the first place, and its exposure to sunshine and rain, both of which shorten the toxic period. But in any case it remains effective far longer than the older poisons, requiring fewer applications.

A review of reports made by state experiment stations shows the following garden insects which are immune to the new killer: Red spider, Mexican bean beetle, and "some aphids."

The insects against which it was said to be more effective than older materials included cabbage worms, European corn borer, pea and potato aphids, leaf hoppers of all kinds, the codling moth, cankerworm, gypsy moths, Japanese beetles and the bark beetles which transmit the Dutch elm disease.

Dust Is Recommended
There are so many different kinds of aphids, that it will take a long time to determine just which ones succumb to DDT, and which do not. Meanwhile the home gardener can use rotenone, which kills them all. It mixes well with DDT. Fun-

Home Garden Peas, Served Quickly, Are Top Quality

Not only does the sugar in peas begin to turn to starch as soon as they are picked, but the skin toughens rapidly, and within an hour or two their quality has been materially lowered.

Only the home gardener can enjoy them at the peak of their tenderness and flavor, and he must take care to serve them "garden fresh." They are not one of the "efficient" crops, since only the seed is eaten, and for the space required to grow them the yield is small. They are a luxury crop, but how delightful!

Peas thrive in cool weather, and burn up when the sun grows hot; so they must be harvested, and do best where the ground does not freeze deeply and can be prepared in early spring; or far enough north where summer is relatively cool. In sections where hot weather comes glides also may be combined with DDT without lessening the effectiveness of either.

DDT is harmless to users, according to these reports, except when combined with oil, and then reasonable precautions make it safe. The form most recommended for garden use is a dust, from three to 10 per cent in strength, or a wettable dust which can be used for spraying, when mixed with water. Most of the garden tests were made with dusts.

Of the older insecticides which DDT threatens to displace, the chief one is arsenate of lead, which is more poisonous than the new material both to humans, and to bees. Some experimenters think that DDT will replace all forms of arsenic, especially on potatoes and fruit trees.

Food Storage Publications

At no time during the recent war was the production and careful utilization of home grown food crops more vital to the national welfare. It is scarcely questioned that we shall be existing on greatly reduced rations next winter. Supplies of meats, dairy products and vegetable oils will probably sink to a new all-time low on the grocer's shelves. Therefore, every person who has the facilities should plan to grow maximum crops of vegetables to store for winter use and prepare now to follow methods of storage to protect those essential supplies.

The government publishes many helpful and instructive bulletins, pamphlets and leaflets to acquaint housewives and growers with the best and most economical steps in food storing methods. These are all free. To mention but a few of the most useful:

Farmers' Bulletin 1918—Drying Foods For Victory Meals. And while this publication was prepared for wartime emergencies, its sound advice and information are just as timely now. It explains the chief steps in drying vegetables and fruits.

Farmers' Bulletin 1932—Preservation of Vegetables By Salting And Brining. This is particularly informative for growers who produce more food crops than they can dispose of. It is an interesting accumulation of useful knowledge.

Farmers' Bulletin 1762—Home Canning Of Fruits, Vegetables And Meats. This is truly a "must" in the kitchen and pantry of every housewife.

Farmers' Bulletin 1186—Pork On The Farm. This is an excellent publication to have on hand when farm butchering time arrives next fall.

A companion publication is AWI-

108, entitled Curing Pork Country Style.

For those who plan to take full advantage of surplus crops of cabbage, cucumbers and other vegetables for making pickles and relishes, AWI-103—Pickle And Relish Recipes will prove a wealth of timely information.

A condensed guide canning in general is AWI-93—Home Canning Of Fruits And Vegetables.

Another "must" in the kitchen library is AWI-59—Oven Drying.

According to letters from our readers, tomatoes will play a big role in the 1946 garden. Therefore, housewives will need AWI-104—Tomatoes On Your Table.

Before time comes to bury root crops or to store surpluses in cellars and basements, the editor hopes every gardener and farmer will obtain and study Farmers' Bulletin 1939—Home Storage Of Vegetables And Fruits. Following the sound advice of this publication generally would certainly save millions of dollars worth of food crops usually wasted in the nation's gardens.

How may these publications be obtained?

Any five may be obtained without charge on request to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Office of Information, Washington 25, D. C., or all of them may be procured by writing to your Congressman. In either case give both the number and title of each publication requested.

The editor will be glad to advise readers about other free publications in which they are interested.

SECOND FLOODS IN WEEK SWEEP PENNSYLVANIA

Philadelphia, June 3 (P)—Flood water, fed by 20 hours of continuous rains, receded today after rampaging wildly over many portions of Pennsylvania—flooding homes and stores, disrupting transportation, communications and industrial activity, and killing at least three persons.

The disastrous floods—second in the Keystone state within a week—claimed the lives of an 11-year-old Cub Scout and an unidentified man in the Philadelphia area. A nine-year-old girl was drowned in Western Pennsylvania.

The rain-swollen Schuylkill river and its tributary streams boiled over as the weather bureau recorded the second heaviest June rainfall in its history. Only in 1936 was it heavier.

Trains Are Halted
Flood waters inundated Manayunk, a section of northwest Philadelphia, covered parts of Fairmount park—second largest city park in the nation—and halted Reading company and Baltimore and Ohio trains. There was no official estimate of damage.

The "Valley of Bungalows," bordering Perkiomen creek in nearby Collegeville, was hardest hit by the waves of rushing water.

Robert Montgomery, 11, was swept to his death when a reggie rowboat capsized. He was one of 33 Cub Scouts marooned on a little island in the muddy Perkiomen. The others were rescued by the quick-thinking of two Collegeville firemen who improvised an "overhead rope" tied to a tree on the island and telephone pole on the mainland, 100 yards away.

Paul Shafer, manager of the Philadelphia Red Cross Chapter, said "only the noble job the Collegeville firemen did saved the lives of those other 32 kids." The Scouts had been on an overnight camping trip.

Flee Their Homes
The Susquehanna river in Northern New York and Central-Eastern Pennsylvania and the Allegheny river in Western Pennsylvania rose slightly as the all-day downpour whipped the two-state area, but reports indicated there would be no repetition of the havoc that took 14 lives and caused more than $3,000,000 damage last week.

Low lying sections of Uniontown, Pa., were awash when Redstone creek and Coal Lick run overflowed their banks. Several hundred persons fled their homes and damage was estimated at thousands of dollars.

"MAKE IT A MILLION!"

Since last September over three-quarters of a million men have joined the Regular Army as volunteers. Many of them are veterans of World War II, who know and like Army life. Others are younger men—alert and ambitious—who have recognized their responsibility to serve their country and to relieve from duty men who took up arms against our enemies.

Never before in American history has the Army had so much to offer in good pay, travel, education and adventure. And never before in peacetime has your country needed such a strong and modern Regular Army for world-wide protection of peace and security.

If you are qualified, mentally and physically, for Regular Army enlistment, you have everything to gain and nothing to lose by finding out all the advantages the Army has to offer you. Stop at your nearest U. S. Army Recruiting Station today!

AIR FORCES—GROUND FORCES—ADMINISTRATIVE AND TECHNICAL SERVICES

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE ARMED FORCES VOLUNTARY RECRUITMENT ACT

1. Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (One-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
2. Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
3. An increase in the reenlistment bonus to $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 90 days after last honorable discharge.
4. Up to 90 days' paid furlough, depending on length of service, with travel paid to home and return, for men who reenlist within the prescribed time after discharge.
5. A thirty-day furlough each year with full pay.
6. Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to reenlist.
7. Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 30 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. (Retirement income in grade of Master or First Sergeant up to $155.25 per month for life.) All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
8. Benefits under the GI Bill of Rights for men who enlist before October 6, 1946. A 4-year college, trade or business school course, with expenses paid, at the end of a 3-year enlistment.
9. Family allowances for the term of enlistment for dependents of men who enlist or reenlist before July 1, 1946.
10. Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.
11. Reserve and A.U.S. commissioned officers released from active duty may be enlisted in Grade 1 (Master Sergeant) and retain their reserve commissions, provided they reenlist within the prescribed time.

Letter To The Editor

14 May 1946

Dear Sir:

This letter finds me aboard the 45,000-ton battleship the USS Missouri with the Eighth Fleet on maneuvers in the South Atlantic. After a three-day trip from Norfolk, Virginia, we came in contact with carrier planes from the USS Princeton in the morning and at approximately three o'clock we joined the fleet.

During the three days previous to operating with the Eighth Fleet the ship's crew spent most of the time in training of the new men with heavy and light guns. We carry day two of the four were launched and the men used these planes to train their guns on. Sometimes during the recovery of these planes the men run into difficulty such as our second day operation. The last of the two planes being taken aboard was adrift for about three hours on the high seas until the rescue ship managed to reach it. After getting the plane aboard and smashing the pontoons and fuselage, it was finally out of commission.

The first operation on meeting the maneuvering fleet was refueling the Missouri which took approximately two and a half hours under the conditions. Refueling at sea while the ships are underway is really a complicated task and worth your while to see.

Tomorrow, May 15, the three Princeton, will launch all their planes for more gunnery training on destroyers. May 16 will see heavy bombardment of the island of Calibira after which we will spend a short time there for mostly recreational purposes. Sunday, May 19, the Missouri leaves here with the fleet headed for the port of New York, docking at pier 81 with the carrier ROOSEVELT on the forenoon of May 27. After a short ert L. McClellan, Biglerville R. 1, and William V. Weaver, Mechanicsburg, sideswiped. Total damage was $90. No one was injured.

SIX INJURED IN

State police are continuing their investigation of an accident at 7 o'clock Saturday evening on Lincolnway east in New Oxford. Desire Istre, New Oxford, was driving west when a car pulled out in front of him from South Peters street, according to police. Istre cut to the right to avoid a collision with the unknown driver and struck a parked car owned by Dr. Wilbur Miller. Total damage was $35. Police are searching for the unknown car which, they say, was the cause of the accident.

Carl of Lawrence P. Fidler, 68, East Middle street, and Boyd E. Henderson, Gettysburg R. 4, collided Saturday at 6 o'clock in the afternoon at the intersection of the Mummaburg-Shriver cross road and the Table Rock-Gettysburg road. Total damage was $180 including 10 dozen of eggs which were shattered in the smash-up.

"Yes," Whitney replied slowly. "I am. And tonight I'm going to have a showdown."

In spite of herself Polly gave a start of surprise. "Why," she asked, startled at the abruptness of her sister's remark. "Has anything else happened?"

"No, but something is going to before this case gets to court."

"I don't understand."

"It's just that I'm tired of Gregory's evasions. He won't tell me what is back of the charge he made against Paul. I'm beginning to think he doesn't any more believe Paul was cheating at baccarat than you are I do."

"What on earth are you talking about?" Polly exclaimed suddenly relieved at the unexpected indignation in her sister's voice. It began to look as if the careful arguments she had marshaled up for Whitney's consideration might not be necessary after all.

"Have you found out that he does know how to play the game?"

"Yes, I'm sure he knows a lot about cards," Whitney said in a level voice. "but there is more to it than that. At first I thought he didn't and that in the excitement of the game he'd made a mistake. One that could be righted by a gentleman's agreement—out of court—an apology, that sort of thing. But Gregory won't do that."

"Paul, of course, insists on going through with the libel suit."

"There isn't anything else he can do," Whitney's voice sounded tired as if she had rehearsed the matter many, many times before. "Gregory is the only one who can make the amend honorable and satisfy Paul now. Things have gone too far. The case will be called in eight days."

Polly was silent while the water brought their luncheon. The silence between the girls lasted until he had disappeared into the pantry. It was so late now they were the last people left in the restaurant.

"I've decided to find out for myself what is back of all this, Polly. Paul isn't here. He left this afternoon for the Pacific Coast. But even if he were here I wouldn't be seeing him. He's only been in Washington once since the hunt breakfast. Gregory says nothing. He shuts up like a clam whenever the libel suit is mentioned. But he must have some reason for deliberately letting a court action like this wreck his career. It jolly well will, too, if the case gets into court. The embassy lawyer told the Senator that two days ago."

"But what can you do, Whitney?" Polly asked anxiously. "After all, you are not responsible in any way for what happened. It is strictly a matter between these two men and I don't want you involved in it any more than is absolutely necessary. There isn't anything you can do."

"I'm not so sure you're right about that," Whitney retorted. "Senator Field knows what gives and I'm going to make him tell me tonight. Don't worry, Polly. If I am out of Washington for a few days, I'll be all right and the Senator will know where I am. I'm the girl with a plan."

"I see," Polly's voice was dubious. "You had one before, remember? I'm not so awfully keen about these 'plans' of yours."

Whitney laughed. "Well, I don't think the first one was too brilliant—but this one may be better—sort of victory of labor over management idea. Anyway, I'm not going to sit around and do nothing. I'm going to get some action—but fast!"

Suddenly for no accountable reason Polly began to feel better.

Chapter 21

Polly Wilson was waiting for Whitney at the Club Eighty-four the next day at noon. Whitney had telephoned that she would be late. An Iowa delegation scheduled for the end of a busy morning in the office had necessitated a late lunch hour.

The club lounge was almost empty. There was an air of elegance and complete withdrawal from the hectic Washington scene in this high-ceilinged room with its fine paintings and old damask draperies drawn against the admission of too much light and noise. Polly was grateful for this chance to think out a few troublesome questions before she met her younger sister. A mistake now on her part might cost her Whitney's confidence and that would certainly be a calamity just at this time.

She remembered an old bromide her father used to repeat when she was a little girl clamoring for something she wanted very much at the moment.

"Polly," he would say with that definite air of rightness which adults of his generation always turned on the young when they were about ready to say "no," "don't you know that the worst thing that could happen to a boy or a girl would be to give them exactly what they want the most?"

The logic of that seldom appealed to Polly in her teens but she was wondering about it today in regard to Whitney. She had insisted she wanted time to decide which of these men she really loved. She was getting all she asked for in that respect and quite a lot more.

That morning at the breakfast table Spuds had told her that a law suit of this kind would certainly involve Whitney and the Scotts. A bad situation might become very much worse if something were not done about it.

She watched Whitney crossing the wide hall, coming toward her with the free long stride of a girl who lived much of her life out-of-doors. Her red-gold hair swept down on her shoulders and framed her lovely glowing face. Polly felt a surge of pride and deep affection sweep over her. Whitney was one of the finest—she didn't want her hurt now—or dragged through scandal.

"Oh, Polly, am I ever glad to see you," Whitney put her arm around her sister's shoulders as the two girls started walking slowly toward the restaurant. "I thought I'd never get here. I couldn't get a taxi anywhere. Finally I telephone Gregory and he drove me over in his roadster."

"I suppose you are seeing a lot of him here in Washington," Polly observed as the waiter departed with their luncheon order.

"Yes," Whitney replied slowly. "I am. And tonight I'm going to have a showdown."

In spite of herself Polly gave a start of surprise. "Why," she asked, startled at the abruptness of her sister's remark. "Has anything else happened?"

"No, but something is going to before this case gets to court."

"I don't understand."

"It's just that I'm tired of Gregory's evasions. He won't tell me what is back of the charge he made

Chapter 22

Whitney did not wait until evening to talk to Senator Field. After every one but the Senator had left the office late that afternoon she went in to find him wearily stacking up papers to take home with him.

"I know you are tired—and I haven't any business bothering you with my troubles at the end of a terrific day," Whitney hesitated in the doorway, reluctant to keep him after hours on matters which had nothing to do with office routine.

The Senator settled back in his desk chair with a wide smile on his good-natured, homely face.

"Just looking at you, my dear, makes things easier in my hectic existence! Come in, sit down and let's talk over this law suit. I've been expecting you to ask me about it. There are only four court days between now and the time it comes up next week."

Gratefully Whitney slipped into the chair he designated. The Senator needed no explanations. He knew she loved two men and was beautiful. He also knew the background of these men and as he looked at the girl in the deepening shadows of the early winter twilight, he wondered how she was going to work out a situation as old as the story of Helen of Troy—or older. Whitney lost no time in coming directly to the question upon which he had called her in.

"Senator Field, there is something back of the accusation Gregory made against Paul at baccarat. I think you know that. There is more than slander involved in this case. Will you tell me what it is?"

For a moment the Senator hesitated. Then he pushed his brief case, stuffed with papers, to one side and leaned his folded arms on the desk. He looked directly at Whitney as he said slowly:

"Yes, I think I will, my dear. Paul does not want you to know until the case comes to trial. He has some idea that nothing should be said about the other incident until we are sure the paper is no longer in existence. And," he added quietly, "he does not want anything to unduly influence your opinion until all the facts are collected and ready for proper presentation at the trial."

"Thank you, Senator," Whitney said evenly. "I think I can be trusted with the facts and I really need them now for my own peace of mind."

"Four years ago, just before Paul graduated from Yale, he was playing cards one night in his club near the campus. I think it was a special card club a few men had formed. At any rate the Count was a member of the same club as Paul was, and a chap called Armstrong."

"Jack Armstrong," Whitney repeated his name in a low voice. "I know him very well."

The Senator nodded. "That's the man. It seems the Count was an excellent player—usually good at bridge and the men had asked him to join their club just that year. He was doing special work at the University in international law and was about ready to graduate and come to Washington."

"Well, to get on with the story, one night near graduation time, Paul became suspicious of the Count. He called him in the presence of Armstrong and other members and showed the men he was playing with marked cards. Both Armstrong and Paul have sworn affidavits that this was clearly shown and that the marked cards were seen by every man there that night."

"After a discussion among the members as to what should be done of cheating representing them in

DIVERS SEARCH SITE OF CRASH

Naples, June 3 (P)—Deep sea divers joined a search today for the bodies of 22 missing persons aboard a U. S. army transport plane which plunged into the sea near here Saturday while en route to the United States from India with 38 returning U. S. military personnel.

Only eight persons were rescued from the four-engined ship, which a survivor said caught fire in the air. The bodies of eight others were recovered from the sea after the crash.

Army officials said the crash occurred after passengers, trying to escape the fire, ran to the tail of the ship, throwing it into a tail spin.

ATC officials denied reports from New York that high-ranking officials were aboard the China-Burma theater were aboard the ill-fated ship. Sgt. Robert G. King of (315 Jackson street), Grove City, Pa., one of the survivors, said the plane caught fire in the air and that some of the passengers managed to bail out before it crashed. He said the fire started in the pilot's compartment "and we were all told to abandon the ship immediately."

King said he "hit the water just after the plane crashed. I looked up and saw 11 parachutes in the air. The plane seemed to crumple and sink."

He was unharmed but shaken.

about exposing the Count's cheating at cards, Paul finally made this suggestion. Realizing what such a charge would mean to a man just starting a diplomatic career in a new country he asked the men present if they would never mention the episode to anyone in the future, provided the Count would never sign a statement that he would never play cards again.

"On the face of it, considering that the Count was then a man well over thirty, there was small chance of his ever living up to such an agreement, but the boys had a quixotic idea that this would have a salutary effect on him. So they prepared a statement which the Count did sign that night: Paul, Armstrong and a man named White were witnesses to his signature."

"Where is that paper?" Whitney asked in a stifled little voice.

"It seems to have disappeared. But if it could be found I think I could settle this affair out of court. It would certainly help the embassy lawyer make a mighty quick decision!"

"Who took the paper that night, Paul?"

"No. Jack Armstrong took it. And it seems to have disappeared while the men were in the navy. Paul and Armstrong have searched everywhere for it. I'm afraid it's lost. And I think the Count figured on that, too. I very much doubt that he would ever have made this charge against Paul if he thought for one moment that signed confession of his would ever show up again."

"Does Gregory's embassy know about his—his gambling?"

"I think his gambling propensities are a matter of record. But that might be overlooked. Plenty of men like to back the horses or play poker. It is just that this college episode and a libel suit against him now for slander may be a combination that will not please his superiors. Embassies do not want men with reputations for that kind other countries. The Count's charge against Paul may backfire very seriously—for him."

"Paul will win this libel action," the Senator added quietly. "Every day only makes that more certain. But I still hope it will never come to trial, for all your sakes."

Suddenly Whitney stood up, listening. In the outer office she heard the slight sound of a door being softly closed. She turned quickly to the Senator who was standing behind his desk, once more gazing up his papers and the over-packed brief case.

"I think someone has just come into the office," Whitney said in a low voice. "I'm going now—I'll lock up for the night and I want to thank you—for everything. You've been a perfect darling—all the way through." She came around to the Senator and whispered in his ear.

"Give me two days' leave, sir. I'm going to find that paper!"

"Good hunting, girl!" he smiled down at her. "I guess everything depends on you now. Best of luck—and for heaven's sake, keep me posted! Where you going, anyway?"

"Will telephone you tonight—before midnight," she called back as she disappeared into the outer office.

MILK SHORTAGE BLAMED ON OPA

Harrisburg, June 3 (P)—Central Pennsylvania today faces an "alarming" milk shortage, says the Harrisburg Milk Dealers Association, unless the OPA permits an immediate increase in ceiling prices on milk paid to farmers in Dauphin, York, Cumberland, Perry, Lancaster and Lebanon counties.

The prediction, made through the association's counsel, Willis Daniels, was based on the action of Federal Milk Administrator W. P. Sadler allowing dealers in Philadelphia and New York to pay producers 40 cents a hundredweight more for raw milk.

"This increase will naturally syphon milk from this area to the two metropolitan cities because dealers will buy their milk where the ceiling is lowest," Daniels said.

The evening we go to a night club or the movies, and when I die I am going to be buried from an undertaker's. What in the world would I want with a home?

What a far cry is this from those finer and nobler impulses manifested at the turn of the century in our Nation's Capital by every segment of society, from the highest to the lowest. And what was the occasion?

Honored In Death

Ninety years ago a man who had never known a permanent home died in far-off Africa, and was buried in a British cemetery. Forty years later a great American warship sailed across the sea, draped his casket in the Stars and Stripes, and brought his body home to be buried in Arlington National Cemetery alongside our heroes and statesmen of other days.

All that remained of this nomadic native American was met at Union Station by military bands and a military guard. Congress and the Supreme Court adjourned in honor of his memory. The flag-draped casket was tenderly placed upon a great caisson and followed by thousands past the Capitol, along Pennsylvania Avenue, and across the historic Potomac to its final resting place.

Ambassadors from foreign lands paid homage from their positions at the curb along the line of march. Members of the Supreme Court, and of the Senate and House of Representatives, together with the President's Cabinet, stood there, too, shoulder to shoulder with captains of industry and the common laboring men. With heads bared and hats held over their hearts, there they stood paying a sincere and long-neglected tribute.

John Howard Payne

Who was this man, and what had he done? He had won no mighty victories. He had painted no pictures and carved no statues. He had erected no buildings, had amassed no fortune, had written no books. No; he had done none of these things; but he had dreamed of his boyhood, and had written a simple ballad which will thrill and touch our heart strings for all time to come.

"Mid pleasures and palaces though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there's no place like home."
Yes; John Howard Payne immortalized the Home and gave it recognition throughout the world as society's noblest and most sacred institution. But every student of social affairs, and every person who has even casually watched the trend of the times, knows that home life, particularly in our own United States, has been on the down grade. Of all the dangers which, like an angry cloud, threaten the security of our national life, the very greatest, in my opinion, is the growing dissolution of the home. Houses there are, but fewer are the homes of Byron, Burns, and Payne—homes in which are taught and practiced the simple virtues of obedience, reverence, and modesty.

Turn To Revival

The current trend seems to be in the direction of revival: a revival of trade, revival of government, revival of racial tolerance, etc. But more than all of these, we need a revival of the Christian home. We look to Congress and the Executive, and to the Supreme Court and our National Defense, for our laws, and for their interpretation and execution, but none of these can mold character and make a good citizen. Not even the churches nor the schools, effective as they may be, can do it alone. Character and citizenship are molded and developed in the homes of the land where God is worshipped and his word is taught, and where parents, worthy of honor, are honored and obeyed. THERE IS THE HEART OF AMERICA.

COMMUNISTS IN FRANCE HANDED NEW REVERSES

By JAMES M. LONG

Paris, June 3 (AP)—French Communists received their second setback within a month today as returns from yesterday's election for a new constituent assembly showed that the middle-of-the-road popular Republican movement (MPR) had become the nation's strongest political party.

Socialists took an even sharper defeat than the Communists, as the political pendulum swung away from the left, continuing the trend noted in the May 5 referendum when a Communist-socialist constitution was rejected.

Although returns still had not been received from the colonies, which held 60-odd seats, the MPR was assured of at least 10 more seats than it held in the last assembly and at least one more seat than the Communists previously held, the ministry of the interior said.

Complete Returns

Complete but unofficial returns from France and Corsica, as announced by the ministry, showed:

MPR 160 seats, compared with 150 in the last assembly.
Communists 145, compared with 159.
Socialists 115, compared with 146.
Republican Liberals 59, compared with 64.
Republican rally (Radical-Socialist) 43, compared with 60.

Judging from returns in the last two elections, the general trend will not be affected by returns from the colonies.

The MPR victory also was shown in the popular vote from France and Corsica which gave it a majority of approximately 380,000 over the Communists, their nearest rivals.

The popular vote showed that the Communists, although they gained in total vote, were not able to match the gained in total vote, were not the gain of the MPR.

Rule By Coalition

Maurice Schumann, one of the MRP leaders, said in L'Europe that his party may demand the Presidency of the government.

Georges Bidault, present foreign minister, is the leader of MRP.

Even before the final tabulation, rumors were heard at the ministry that the MRP might invite Gen. Charles De Gaulle to return as head of the new provisional government. These reports were without any confirmation however.

Since no party emerged with a clear-cut majority, France will be governed again by a Coalition—and some sources believe the Coalition will be more difficult than ever to form. The present Coalition is composed of the Communists, Socialists and MRP.

Chinese Ambassador Links U.S. And China

Waynesburg, Pa., June 3 (AP)—Dr. Wei Tao-Ming, Chinese ambassador, told graduates at Waynesburg college's 95th commencement yesterday that "China and America have the same democratic ideal, put the same value on the dignity of man and have the same love of peace."

Declaring a strong parallel desire for peace has been the foundation for more than 100 years of friendly relations between the two countries, the ambassador said.

"Our differences are superficialities and our similarities are profound."

FOREIGN DIPLOMACY

Seattle, Wash., (AP)—When Mrs. Anna Lobl, former inmate of the Theresienstadt concentration camp in Czechoslovakia, arrived in New York among the first words she learned were:

"I am from Europe. Concentration camp. No stockings."

By the time she reached Seattle she had seven pairs of stockings—and a pound of butter.

There was no explanation of how she got the butter.

'Flying Eye' To Seek Oil As Peacetime Job

Pittsburgh, June 3 (AP)—The mapping from the air of uncharted oil resources under the sea and in remote land areas will be the peacetime role of the "flying eye," which helped Uncle Sam's airmen track down German submarine "wolf packs" the Gulf Oil Corp. announced today.

Gulf scientists claim the instrument an airborne magnetometer, is the first practical means of oil surveying from the air.

It is also the fastest known means of securing geophysical prospecting data of any kind "and probably the cheapest," the scientists asserted.

mony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Guests attending included Mrs. Mary Weikert, Mr. and Mrs. Willis Schwartz and daughters, Edith Virginia Weikert, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bushman and daughter, Brady Weikert, and Kenneth Roche, all of Gettysburg; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weikert and Mrs. Betty Jane Sterner, York; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Daugherty and daughter, Allen Bouey, and the Misses Helen Gelwicks, Eunice Bouey and Mary Theresa Topper, Emmitsburg.

Mrs. Weikert was discharged in February, 1945, after serving four years and three months with the Marines, 31 months of which were spent in the Pacific theater of operations. At present he is employed with the federal mappers at Lees-Meade inn.

Mr. and Mrs. Weikert left on a wedding trip of unannounced destination. After June 15 they will reside at 54 East Stevens street.

Flashes Of Life

CAN'T STOP

Philadelphia, (AP)—Six Baltimore and Ohio railroad employees who served 27 years continuously with the carrier, were retired on pension.

Three of them—James E. Joynson, 66; Dr. Charles W. Pense, 74, and Charles E. Webb, 70, all Philadelphians—said they'd spent a lot of their spare time traveling.

TOO BAD

Tokyo, Saturday, (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's sister-in-law is getting to be quite a farmer, the newspapers Yomiuri reported today.

"With a neckerchief tied smartly around her head, Princess Chichibu can be seen spending many hours tilling the grounds of Higashiyama detached villa like many a common farmer's wife," Yomiuri said.

CROWN BAN

Waukegan, Ill., (AP)—The Waukegan city council passed an ordinance regulating poultry raising in the city.

It also makes it illegal for roosters to crow, but the councilmen admitted the roosters don't know about the law.

BOTH SIDES SEE VICTORY FROM ITALIAN VOTES

By GEORGE BRIA

Rome, June 3 (AP)—Both Republicans and Royalists predicted victory by comfortable margins today as Italy completed a plebiscite which will determine whether the nation is to be a monarchy or a republic.

The official verdict will not be announced until after June 7, but first unofficial returns on the referendum and the concurrent constituent assembly elections are expected soon after the polls close at noon today.

"We polled 60 to 65 per cent of the vote," said Randolfo Pacciardi, Republican leader, concerning the referendum. However, he conceded that the House of Savoy's home stretch campaign of last week had cut down Republican chances for a more sweeping victory.

A highly placed monarchist estimated that King Umberto would be upheld by at least 60 per cent of the voters "if the balloting was regular." He declared that several instances already had been reported of irregularity at the polls.

Voted Blank Ballots

While the clear-cut plebiscite issue between the monarchy and the republic overshadowed voting for the assembly, observers regarded the latter as equally, if not more important, since the outcome would indicate the extent of Italy's political swing, either to the right or left.

King Umberto voted about 45 minutes before the polls closed. A small crowd of last minute voters cheered the king as he entered and left the polling place in the fashionable Parilli section.

The king's campaign manager told newsmen he had "reason to believe" the king turned in blank ballots both on the referendum and the assembly election. The king, he said, was "above every passion and absolutely objective."

During the Christian era, iron was used as a medium of exchange in many isolated regions of Africa. The king turned in blank ballots both on the referendum and the assembly election. The king, he said, was "above every passion and absolutely objective."
